MORABLE CHRISTMAS PARTIES ON A TIGHT BUDGET

'C Party' organisation time is rapidly roaching, and no doubt you have been with co-ordinating this event, with all the ons yet limited budget. Here are a number ainment ideas that won't go over budget, make the party memorable.

antas. This is a traditional activity for a of offices at Christmas time. The name pient of 'Santa's' present is picked out of nd the 'Santa' sends anonymous letters/ the days leading up to the party. She then recipient a present (remember to suggest r price limit). Fun can be stretched out ent's trying to guess their santa and the eing 'revealed'.

mpetitions such as 'Create a cocktail' - hohol ingredients recommended! Or cake ig competition. I guarantee a bloke from IT y get into this competition! Announce the ion in advance; it could be for individuals iments.

ave a dinner, as a surprise, set each competition for the after dinner nment'. This could be anything from a jingle; advert or even dance (!) Leave petition in an envelope on the tables ts to open when they arrive. This is a e-breaker and after a couple of drinks lose their inhibitions. These could be ed' after dinner with Strictly Come or X Factor grumpy judges with score paddles. You could employ a musician; actor or dance teacher to assist.

Other creative competitions you could run on dinner tables include designing party hats; masks and limericks to be displayed or recited after dinner.

Singing carols/seasonal songs. You wou surprised at how guests enjoy this; it reminds of Christmas when they were young. Provide sheets and a musician to play the piano/lea singing. This is perfect for a drinks party; in l party or after dinner entertainment.
